ATTRACTIVE

*»Cogito, ergo sum« - »I think, therefore I am«, René Descartes said in the 17th Century.
Transferred to the present day, it would probably have to be a whole list, and among other things it would surely say: »Emo, ergo sum« - »I buy, therefore I am«. But not just anything.
And that's why we present you with the most attractive necessities.*

FRESH from the EMBERS

The island of Murano in the Venetian Lagoon is famous for its centuries-old art of glass blowing, Swiss architect Davide Rizzo for his elaborate, luxurious designs. This know-how plus courage is a good symbiosis, it seems. For inspiration and production of his current series of drinking glasses, Rizzo traveled to Murano and worked together with Gianni Seguso, one of the oldest and most traditional glass blowers there. Together, they have designed two collections of glasses: »Ember # 1« - warm gray color, simple and elegant, and »Ember # 2« - bottle green and baroque-opulent.
